Couse Information

- 1) Maintenance Control Program (MCP) vs. On-Site Documentation CEU = 0.15
- a. In-person setting.
 - b. Due to confusion surrounding this subject, we will conduct a thorough review of A17.1-2022, Sections 8.6.1.2.1 and Section 8.6.1.2.2.
 - c. There have been significant changes to the requirements set forth in ASME A17.1-2022 surrounding the mandatory documentation that is required to be kept onsite. This presentation will identify those requirements and discuss whether they are to be in electronic or written format.
 - d. This class will further delineate between what is considered documentation for the MCP and what is for the On-Site Documentation file.
 - e. There will be a Quiz at the end to promote attention and learning. You may wish to take notes.
- 2) QEI-1 / IBC / NFPA 13 & 72 CEU = 0.15
- a. In-person setting.
 - b. Please have access to the four (4) codes for the class.
 - c. In today's code update class, the QEI portion is based upon the summary of changes, the IBC portion is based upon the 2024 Edition of Significant Changes, and finally the NFPA 13 & 72 portions are based upon changes that are relevant in the elevator industry.
 - d. Throughout these four classes, we will share new definitions and references.
 - e. There will be a Quiz at the end to promote attention and learning. You may wish to take notes.
- 3) ASME A17.1-2022 Safety Code for Elevators and Escalators – Section 8.11.1 General Requirements for Periodic Inspections and Witnessing of Tests & Section 8.11.2 Periodic Inspection of Electric Elevators
CEU = 0.2
- a. Webinar setting.
 - b. Provides a “How-To” perspective.
 - c. We will review ASME A17.1 as the precursor to the use of A17.2. Section 8.11 sets up the requirements to perform inspections. Section 8.11 directs us to the A17.2 guide, which standardizes the work performed by the inspector. Eighty-six years ago, A17.2 was created to assist in the standardization of inspections and tests. We have shown A17.2 presentations in the past. However, today, we will be reviewing 8.11.2 for electric elevators and specifically addressing the inspection tasks not outlined in A17.2.
 - d. We intend to give conscious thought to the following:
 - What does an inspection entail?

- How long does it take to perform an inspection?
- How can I justify additional manpower for inspections?

Standards Used in these presentations:

The latest edition ASME A17.1 -2022*, ASME A17.2-2023*, ASME QEI-1-2024, 2024 International Building Code, NFPA 13-2025, NFPA 72-2025

Ok to bring to class your current edition.  Please bring the latest edition*
